

1. We will apply to the matter the same measures that we took previously.

2. The effort required for success in life will prove considerably great.

3. Considering the time and effort that the British devote to sports it is surprising that they are not better at them.

4. Of the many choices he had after he had graduated from university, he chose that which seemed to him the most attractive.

5. If you understand what I mean, you will find any kind of reading far less passive than you may now think.